TOWN AND DISTRICT

The regular meeting of the Board of Trade held last Thursday evening was well attended, but most of the business was laid over to an adjourned meeting, owing to another attraction in town that evening which the members desired to participate in. After the usual routine procedure, the reading of correspondence occupied some time and it being disposed of nine new members were duly voted upon and their names placed upon the roll of membership.

Then some discussion concerning the building of the bridge arose and it was decided to circulate a petition pointing out the immediate necessity of locating and constructing the bridge. It was then stated that at the adjourned meeting to be called by the vice-president the election of a president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer would take place and many other matters of importance to the town and district taken up.

Duncan Clark the successful Crowfoot horse breeder, paid The Call a pleasant visit Saturday and in the course of conversation said that on Thursday he delivered the last of a bunch of 36 stallions which he has sold this season, and that he has also disposed of the last registered mare he has for sale this year. He said most of his registered stock were sold to people in this province but he also had done considerable business with men throughout the west and as far east as Manitoba. Recently he sold two stallions to Edmonton people. On the 8th inst. he has a shipment of horses coming from the east. Speaking of the past winter he said he had not fed grain to any of his horses but left them out on the range all winter; and they were all in good condition.

A very pleasant house-warming dance was given by J. E. Ostrander Monday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Ostrander proved themselves to be excellent entertainers and they have the good wishes of all who were present, and it is hoped they will find such prosperity as will hold them in our midst for many years to come. The popularity of these dances is shown by the way the crowd who attend has grown. A large number went out from town and came back well pleased with the evening spent and hope to hear of another such dance in the near future.

F. K. McKay, one of our most enterprising merchants, has made the suggestion that The Call publish a market report of all staple articles. This is a good idea and will be followed to a certain extent, if our advertisers will supply advance information as to the extent their customers will be affected. Such as for instance lemons will advance in price here within two weeks, or some other article will decline in price and so on, for such and such a reason. This will be beneficial to the buyer and merchant and save a lot of explanation.

Rev. Mr. Castle is attracting large audiences every Sunday evening to hear him in the St. Andrew's Church. It is stated that he is likely to be succeeded by an eastern man and if this is true some special effort should be made to keep him here. He is a young man, a good speaker and very much in earnest in all he does, and it will be difficult to get a man to replace him.

Mr. Crawford, manager of the Medicine Hat branch of the Bank of Commerce, arrived here Saturday afternoon and in company with Mr. McKee took a drive to view this district, going north about 35 miles. He returned to the Hat Monday night.

Calgary Herald: "The Gleichen Call is rapidly developing into one of the best little town weeklies in the Province.

Thos. Devine has purchased W. C. Govenston's bunch of cattle at $32 per head all round, consisting of about 180 head.

Wild geese and duck continue daily to fly over the town in hundreds to the great delight of our new settlers and land seekers.

Mr. Bray and wife arrived from San Francisco, Cal., on a visit to his brother, C. J. Bray. They are en route to visit other relatives in Ontario.

Last Thursday Geo. Smith arrived from Farmington with a carload of implements which will be used to work on the irrigation canal just north of town.

Local dealers in farm implements are sending out great numbers of seeders, plows, etc., every day. This is the very best evidence that our district is being rapidly developed and settled.

Preston Mills is another of those most desirable North Dakota farmers who have left that state to settle in the Last West. He having arrived Monday from Drayton with a carload of effects to locate in the Queenstown district.

Mr. and Mrs. John Finnigan are in from the Red Deer river district looking after their town property and visiting their friends. It is over six months since they last visited town and were surprised to see the many new buildings that have gone up in Gleichen during that time.

Settlers, who purchased land in the Gleichen district last year, are arriving here daily. With their effects and are only outnumbered by the land seekers arriving with a view to purchasing land. Just keep on watching Gleichen grow.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Gillespie and Miss C. McArthur left Sunday morning for Orillia, Ontario, on a visit and will proceed to Prince Edward Island before returning west. The dance given in their honor Thursday evening proved a most enjoyable affair and was well attended.

GUN CLUB SHOOT

Who Has Got The Button

The club has invested in three pretty medals, in the shape of gold, silver and bronze buttons, which respectively are to be given as first, second, and third prizes. They have arranged that the men who get the three highest scores each week shall wear the button until the next shoot and at the end of the season the men who have the highest scores shall keep the buttons permanently. In case of a tie those tying shoot again to determine who shall wear the button. This week Messrs. McLean, Service and Bray are the happy medalists.

Following are the scores made by the Gun Club members at their shoot Saturday afternoon out of a possible 10 birds:

W. Service.....	7
C. J. Bray.....	7
J. J. Marshall.....	6
Staff-Sgt. McLeod.....	3
J. A. Wilson.....	5
T. H. Beach.....	5
D. Wishart.....	6
D. Maclean.....	8

Rifle Association Meeting

The meeting of the Gleichen Rifle Association was well attended Monday night and much enthusiasm shown by all present. Staff-Sgt. McLeod, who has been appointed captain of the Association occupied the chair. A. R. Yates was duly elected secretary and J. T. Johnston treasurer and Messrs. R. J. Burne, C. A. Miller and S. H. Firth were elected a committee of management to assist the officers. The membership fee was set at $1.50 per year, and the regular shoot is to take place each afternoon. After considerable discussion the matter of constructing the pit, building targets, and laying out the range was left in the hands of the officers and committee.

IRRIGATION ADVANTAGES

The fact that 10,000 acres of land are to be irrigated in this district this season is attracting much attention and the result will be watched by thousands of people with the deepest interest.

It is true that the start is not a big one, yet it will demonstrate what can be done, especially if the season should prove a dry one, which at the present time is not predicted by any one.

The Call has reason to know that the experiment—if it may be called an experiment—is to be watched closely by the number of subscriptions and letters that have been received at this office since the interview with Mr. Dennis was published in these columns. From many parts of the United States we have heard from men expressing the desire to learn all they can of the first attempt at irrigating here, and upon it will to a very large extent depend the whole success of the great undertaking, which is admitted to be the biggest irrigation project ever attempted by a single company.

For the benefit of those who know little of this new country it may be well here to state that irrigation is not a necessity here every year. That as a matter of fact for several years past bounteous crops have been raised without the aid of irrigation, for it was not to be had. Yet there are occasional years when it is needed and needed badly, especially in certain parts. Nevertheless men with experience are today buying land for farming purposes which they cannot irrigate and never expect to irrigate, and are buying with the full knowledge of this and the expectation of success. This is of course, accounted for by the difference in the lay of the different sections and the nature of the soils. It may also be well to point to the well-known fact that often it is found in a radius of a few miles the rain fall is quite different on the prairie as well as in a hilly country.

Over and above the insurance of regular crops to this country irrigation gives, it is stated—and not without a reason—that the water to be used here for irrigation carries with it a sediment which will be found most beneficial to this soil. This water is taken from the Bow river which has its rise far up in the Rocky Mountains and washes down in its course great quantities of decomposed rock which is said to contain mineral properties beneficial to vegetation. Some doubtful ones may think this statement a little far-fetched but if they could see these mountain streams in high water and see their muddy appearance their doubts would soon vanish. Some few do not hesitate to express the opinion that when the water is used for a short time it will materially assist in the growth of trees and it will be found that all the trees that grow on the mountain sides will do especially well here when they can be aided by the water and this sediment.

The interest that is already being manifested in this direction will grow as time wears on, and will without doubt redound to the very best advantage of this district, as it will be natural in years to come, as this project develops and expands in every direction, that all new investors will want to see the particular part where the experiment was first tried to judge of its success. So that it may be expected that the irrigation company will always find it advantageous to keep the Gleichen district as a sort of a demonstrative section to show to the best advantage just what can be accomplished by irrigation. To strengthen this argument it is only necessary to refer to the demonstrative farm they now have within a half a mile of town, and the generous offer Mr. Dennis has made to assist in the beautifying of Gleichen, by supplying trees and irrigation gratis.

A well spent life and an ill spent fortune never go out at the same time.

Some men can't pass a saloon any more than a woman can pass a bargain counter.

And still the cry goes up, "Let us save the boys." It is generally accepted that fathers are beyond redemption, but the boys must be saved. Fathers bend their energies in earnest efforts to straighten crooked sticks and wonder why their boys are not models when the fact is that the youngsters are simply "chips off the old block." The stump which bore them can produce no better. Fathers, note carefully the faults of your boys, and then look within. Do you expect to see any virtue in them which is not reflected in your own life. You will generally find all your shortcomings and a few more. Realize the responsibility of parentage—the sacred trust that has been placed in your keeping. If you would have good boys do right and lead a pure upright, and noble life. Keep your thoughts clean, and give your sons the birthright which is their due. Yes, save the boy; spare them the inheritance of evil appetite, unbridled passions and sordid desires. Give them a foundation on which they may build a beautiful structure—the noblest work of God.

Lumber Combine

The following report of the lumber committee has been presented by Thomas Greenway to the Ottawa Government:

"Your committee, have during the course of their inquiry held some 30 sittings and examined 32 witnesses, and have had a large number of books, letters, price lists and other papers and documents laid down before them as exhibits, which, together with the minutes of their proceedings are herewith submitted for the information of the house.

"Your committee are of the opinion that the prices charged for lumber are excessive; your committee find that there has existed for some years past, and still exists an association known as the 'Western Retail Lumbermen's Association,' and this association included all three provinces until recently, when the retailers of Alberta formed a similar one of their own called 'The Alberta Retail Lumber Association.'"

"These two associations amount, in the opinion of your committee, to a combination and the objects and results of the operations of these two associations have been to annually enhance the said prices, as appears from the price lists themselves and the by-laws, minutes, books and correspondence and evidence of witnesses in regard to the said operations.

"Your committee also finds that more recently the manufacturers formed an association known as the 'British Columbia Lumber and Shingle Manufacturing Association,' which in the opinion of the committee, amounts to a combination and co-operates with the said retail association, and on the part of these manufacturers a good deal of evidence was submitted to show that their prices were not excessive, but before concurring in that view, your committee think that there should be more evidence as to the cost of production of manufacturers. Your committee also has to take into consideration the fact of the cost of lumber to the settler is materially affected by the cost of the freight as well as by profits of the manufacturers and retailers. (Signed) T. Greenway."

This report was prepared by a sub-committee comprising Hon. Thomas Greenway, E. A. Lancaster and W. M. Sloan and approved by the general committee.

"Why don't you deal with the coal strike in The Call?" asked a man the other day.

Well, we might do so and be just as nearly right as some of the newspapers that are passing up opinions or some of the boards of trade that have passed resolutions. But we will be more frank and say we don't know the first thing about the situation. We have only been in this province a few weeks and are so far away from the seat of the trouble that it would be akin to the reports published in the American papers concerning the weather here last winter for us to pretend to know anything of the strike.

Nevertheless, we consider that the present method of dealing with strikes is altogether wrong and a more effective method should be devised of settling the differences between workmen and employers. We agree with the Cranbrook, B. C., Herald when it says:

"To set a vast territory back six or twelve months, to bring sufferings upon thousands of men, women and children, to cause business failures and virtually paralyze the industries of a prosperous country, while the question is being settled, is wrong in principle and contrary to the teachings of modern civilization. There is a more human way to meet these conditions, there is a more sensible way, and that is the way for all men."

"Why do you boost so much for irrigation?" asked a rancher the other day.

"For the reason that irrigation is the the thing that will do more than anything else to make this district prosperous and bring dense population," was the answer.

Our rancher friend admitted this to be true and said he was also aware that the advertising the irrigated land is getting will benefit the unirrigated land for many miles in a way that could not be otherwise. But he remarked that without irrigation good crops had been harvested here and not a few men had become wealthy. He thought these facts should also be made known.

He is right, and we desire to publish all the information that can be got to this effect and shall be pleased to have anyone give us such facts as they are aware of in this matter. We do not want to overlook any of the advantages of this great country. The bare statement that there is wealth made in this, that or the other resource is not sufficient. It must be accompanied with who, when, where, why and how, and then it is worth something.

A lady who believes in patronizing home merchants got after us the other day and here is her view: "No lady wishes to be looked upon as a shopping fiend; she does not care to go into a store and have a merchant show all his stock in order to find out whether he keeps what she wishes to purchase and whether the article is sold at a price she can afford. It is much easier and pleasanter to look through the advertisements of a paper than it is to bore the clerks and waste her own time. Next to the local news items, the ads are most interesting in a paper stating the articles for sale with prices, and they will keep much of the money that goes to the large cities at home."

Some may think us a little premature in saying so, but The Call believes that in a very few years hence that the Gleichen district will be known as one of the great coal centres in the Last West. And coal mining is admitted to rank in importance next to gold mining as a wealth producer, gold being the greatest mineral wealth getter. Don't forget this is a coming mining country, and a coal mining country.

Coal mining—means wealth for the capitalist, means good wages for the working man, means a good market for the farmer and rancher, and means good profits for the tradesmen. Then let us all work for the development of our mines.

Farming, Ranching and Mining make a trio that brings wealth and prosperity to a country. And as we have the trio right in this district let us sing their praises until the music is heard the world over. Everyone join in the chorus.

The Gleichen district is growing and will keep on growing. We have the resources and the people to develop these resources are coming in every day.

Keep up with the procession and boost for your town and country. It will make you feel better every time.

The Gleichen Call

A CALL to the landless of the world to settle on the unoccupied, fertile irrigated lands of "Sunny Alberta" surrounding Gleichen, the heart and centre of these lands.

A CALL to the professional man, the artisan and the laborer to make his home in that Gleichen, which is certain to be one of the most prosperous towns in "Sunny Alberta".

A CALL to the capitalist and the investor to invest in a town and district, which will without any doubt repay his investments a hundred fold in the future.

A CALL to those in search of health—the greatest of all earthly blessings—to come to a Province becoming famous as a Land of Sunshine, neither enervatingly torrid nor frigidly arctic—a happy climatic medium.

A CALL to those now here to work for the interests of that Gleichen they have made their home, to work for its present interests and its future welfare; to work unselfishly and unitedly for its advancement and prosperity. To work and never rest content till "Our Town" reaches a higher and a higher and a still higher position, nor to cease their endeavors 'till at last she takes her place as one of the foremost cities in fertile, mineral-endowed, healthy, beautiful, Sunny Alberta.

S. M. DICKENSON.

A BIG PUZZEL

I've t'ought it over 'gane and 'gane,
But somehow don't quite make it plain
Why t'ings is as eey be;
No I ain't makin' no complaint,
But simply sayin' that I kaint
See w'y dis is, and tolder ain't;
But God knows better'n me.

For 'zample, dere's ole Jacob Bean;
Dere ain't on yearth no man so mean,
So orfe mean as he,
Now, w'y should he have all de cash,
Eet 'possum fat w'ile I eat hash,
An' look on us as nigger trash?
De Lord knows better'n me.

Den comes my neighbor, Simon Bole;
Jess like a lump 'uv solid gol';
He's good as good can be.
For eighteen weeks he's ben in bed
Wid shakes dat's shook him almos' dead,
But w'y I don't git it free my head
De Lord knows better'n me.

Well, I don't bodder 'bout it all;
De Lord's so big an, I'm so small
I couldn't 'spec to see,
So I jess stumbles 'long de way,
Bearin' my burden day by day,
An' smilin' cos my soul kin say,
De Lord knows better'n me.

The Farmer's Ten Commandments.

The following commandments are for the consideration of our farm friends:

1. Thou shalt arise early in the morning and deliver thy milk to the factory, for he that goeth late cansteth the buttermaker to use profane language.
2. Thou shalt not put all the dirt thou canst brush off the cow into the pail.
3. Thou shalt not take any cream from the milk for thy tea or coffee, for when thou gettest thy dividends one shall say unto another, "Why taketh it more milk here for to make a pound of butter than any other synagoge?" Then shall the butter maker arise and smite thee down to the earth.
4. Thou shalt not put water into the milk—thou nor thy man-servant nor thy maid-servant. Harken to me! Thou shalt not get any pay for thy milk if thou doest this base thing.
5. Thou shalt not leave dead carcasses to rot near thy barn for the stench thereof tainteth the milk.
6. Thou shalt not bring into the factory any tainted or sour milk, for such maketh lively butter.
7. Thou shalt not carry away more milk than thy share, lest one shall say unto another concerning thee, "For a wonder one hog doth carry food to another."
8. Thou shalt canse thy cans to be washed every day, and the seams and the covers thereof, for a filthy can is abominable in my sight, and I will visit my wrath upon him that bringeth it.
9. Thou shalt not bother the butter maker saying, "When shall I receive my pay?" For verily I say unto you, he knoweth not, neither does he care.
10. Thou shalt not say unto one another, "Lo, have not these Philistines a soft snap. They get big wages, and they work not hard." Verily I say unto you, this is a whopper. They get up early and they work late. Moreover, they work on the Sabbath, for which the Lord hath no mercy on them.

BY "LITTLE MACK"

The milling of wheat, from olden times when the grain was crushed between two stones, until the present time, when it is reduced between steel rolls, and the bran and offals excluded, has been a gradual process of evolution, and to return to the whole meal bread, which was the product of primitive times, and primitive methods, would be a step backward to a less digestible and a less valuable food.

Just how old the milling business may be, none of us may hazard a guess, as its early history is somewhat vague and misty, and authentic data in regard to it, are as scarce as millionaire data owners.

We cannot reasonably expect to go farther back than the time of Adam and Eve, for the beginning of our present enormous industry.

That happy couple, having after the first twenty years settled fairly well into the rot of a married life, we can easily imagine Adam reposing under a palm tree, clad in a somewhat tight-fitting suit of epidermis with fig-leaf trimming, meditatively watching the wind chase shadows over his two acre plot of Fultz-Mediterranean wheat.

This mental picture is further enhanced by the figure of Eve in the foreground, wearing nothing but an expression of wifely love, sunshining nuts with a couple of big stones, and venting an occasional vicious "dara it" as her thumb, like that of all subsequent women, got in the way once in a while.

We find no record of Adam's ever having grumbled at the quality of bread turned out by Eve, and we must infer that as a cook, she must have been an accomplished success. Perhaps, however it was because Adam could not consistently refer to the bread "his mother used to make."

"If you will chase the setting sun in Canada's last West,

It is there you will find the finest oats and wheat.

And it's there they mill them best.

Where Buffaloes roamed and wallowed and the Red-men strung the bow.

The plowshare now upturns the sod, and waving wheat fields grow.

The cottages, yea the villages are studied o'er the Plain.

And elevators rear their heights to store the precious grain.

And subtle brains and busy hands, and shaft and draft and wheel,

Prepare for man his daily bread in flour and flakes and meal.

To Thee, who stretched the rolling Plain and the Mountains grand did rear,

We thank Thee for our daily bread, and Thee alone we fear."

There is but little doubt in my mind that goodhumor is a priceless boon. It is an oil that smooths many a rough place in life, which otherwise would be very hard sledding. The man who can smile on misfortune, and at the mistakes he has made in life, and has the courage to correct them and work manfully to make amends, has that in him which deserves success in life.

Ill-humor sinks in its tent. The sun never shines bright enough to drive away the clouds of gloom, which continually surround it. It has a snap and a snarl for any who may attempt to point out a better way, or offer a crumb of comfort in case of real need.

Good-humor rises to the occasion and meets misfortune with a smile, however much a heart may be pained, forgetting its own heart-pains, by lending a helping hand to those less fortunate.

Nine million trees were planted in the North West last year. And any one who has ever viewed that landscape o'er, will bless the men who bethought themselves to graft these cheerful whiskers on the bare face of nature.

A friend of mine in St. Bay, Wis., sends me the following statistics of my old town and suggests that therein may lie the secret of the lack of prosperity in the town.—Widows, sixteen; widowers, five; bachelors, two; old maids, six; and ten families that have temporary husbands.

Re your request that I shed my working harness, will say that I am not for one moment forgetting that I haven't a "lead-pipe cinch" on existence, but using the language of western mining men, I am "all in," and as stated in a letter of late date to you, it is not an easy matter to unload my present holding, "square the books", and step down and out.

I hope to have the Pincher Creek Mill & Elevator Co. a good going and dividend paying concern before the end of May. This done you may rest assured that I will take the advice of "the Medicine Man" and my friends, and let up on work, except to attend Board meetings once a month.

Since writing you last, the Canadian Consolidated Flour Mills Ltd., capitalized at $2,000,000, has been incorporated. This means that about fifteen western mills, with a combined capacity of about 3,000 barrels a day, will be controlled by the new organization.

And now comes spring.

"Sweet spring, full of sweet days and roses,

A box where sweets compacted lie. Sweet day so cool, so calm, so bright, The bridal of the earth and sky."

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain,

Very sincerely yours,

M. McDonald.
